BIOGRAPHY

Bridget Saville is a ceramicist and designer who creates functional and sculptural objects through wheel throwing and hand building techniques. She is drawn to exploring the rhythm, balance, and movement inherent to everyday life, manifested through both the physicality of making in her practice, as well as the forms that are created in the process.

As a graduate of Interior Design from RMIT University, Bridget's approach is often inquisitive of spatial relationships; examining how our interior lived experiences shape our perception of the exterior world and vice versa.
